MALOOF FAMILY

JOE & GAVIN WITH 2005 CHAMPIONSHIP TROPHY

Hard-Working, Customer Service-Driven Family Taking Maloof Sports & Entertainment to the Upper Echelon of Professional Sports and Entertainment

In just seven years, the Maloof family has guided the Sacramento Kings and Monarchs, as well as ARCO Arena, to unparalleled heights. Under Maloof Sports & Entertainment, the Kings and Monarchs have advanced to the NBA and WNBA Playoffs, respectively, and produced entertaining basketball that has been seen throughout the world. Last summer the Monarchs won their first WNBA Championship, defeating the Connecticut Sun in the finals.

Even more impressive than the company's competitive accomplishments has been Maloof Sports & Entertainment's significant impact within the community. The Maloof family's business philosophy strongly incorporates the idea of making a meaningful difference in the lives of those in need or at risk in the community by working to advance the cause of literacy in the region through the donations of Kings and Monarchs Reading and Learning Centers.

The company has earmarked over $1 million annually in the way of charitable gifts and donations, including a minimum of $100,000 in proceeds from a selected Kings preseason game donated to local charities as a tribute to the family's late father and husband under the name of the George J. Maloof Sr. Community Cup. In the past, the annual $100,000 gift has allowed the Sacramento Airport Little League to completely refurbish its little league sports complex, the Sacramento Unified School District to repair a building in downtown Sacramento to house Hemispheres, an after-school visual and performing arts academy, the Sacramento Asian Sports Foundation to bring a Community Cultural and Youth Sports Center to South Sacramento, the St. Patrick's Home for Children to provide clothing and educational resources for the center's children and the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacramento to make repairs to its structure in downtown Sacramento. This past year's donation is assisting with the Sacramento Local Conservation Corps campaign to raise funds for a new Educational Building.

The family's dedication to community service earned Joe and Gavin Maloof the World Sports Humanitarian Hall of Fame's Most Involved Executives Award for 2001. In addition, the organization's work was recognized with the Pro Team Humanitarian Award in both 2002 and 2004.

Last summer the Kings, Monarchs and Maloofs helped lead the charge in Sacramento to assist those affected by the destruction suffered from Hurricane Katrina in the Gulf Coast region. Through on-line auctions, fan, employee and player donations and a 100% matching donation from the Maloofs, the organization helped raise nearly $300,000 for those in-need.

While Breast Health Awareness had been an important community initiative since the Monarchs inception in 1997, this community effort hit close to home with the diagnosis of former Monarchs guard Edna Campbell in spring of 2002. Edna is the first active WNBA player to be diagnosed with breast cancer. Under the leadership of Joe and Gavin Maloof, the organization quickly took an expanded role in promoting early detection and recognizing breast cancer survivors in Sacramento. Through in-arena fundraising during the 2002 season, more than $15,000 was raised for the Sacramento affiliate of the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation in Edna's name.

Striving toward the goal of providing complete customer and employee satisfaction, Maloof Sports & Entertainment works under the mission statement of "a championship caliber team of people committed to the highest level of performance, service, quality, innovation, community involvement and winning relationships."

"Our family lives by two Maloof business philosophies, cater to our customers and take care of our employees," states Joe Maloof. "We have a long-term commitment to our fans and employees that make the entire Sacramento community proud to call this organization their own."

Maloof Sports & Entertainment continues to explore ways to enhance the entertainment value of the nearly two million guests who annually enter through the ARCO Arena gateways. In the 2000-01 operating budget, the company earmarked $1 million for training, services and equipment designed to improve customer service and satisfaction. The investment paid immediate dividends, as the Kings ranked fist in the NBA in overall fan experience in 2001 and 2003 in a league-wide survey conducted every other year by J.D. Powers and Associates.

The Maloofs' strong leadership and innovation in the NBA and WNBA was instrumental in spearheading Las Vegas' successful bid to host the 2007 NBA All-Star Weekend. Marking the first time a non-NBA city has hosted the event, the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority (LVCVA) and Maloofs promise the Entertainment Capitol of the World will put on an All-Star Weekend show in a grandiose fashion.

CELEBRATED RETURN TO PROFESSIONAL SPORTS

The Maloof family's interest in purchasing the Kings, Monarchs, and ARCO Arena originated in 1997 when they contacted then-Managing General Partner Jim Thomas regarding the availability of the teams and arena. On January 14, 1998, the Maloofs completed the purchase of a minority-limited partnership in the organization's franchises and ARCO Arena. Although both the Kings and Monarchs suffered through sub par seasons in 1997-98, the Maloofs continued their pursuit of primary ownership and on January 15, 1999, they subsequently purchased controlling interest, effective July 1, 1999. The NBA Board of Governors unanimously approved the ownership transfer on May 7, 1999, in New York, at which time the Board of Governors appointed Joe Maloof to the Board. The official closing of the ownership transaction took place on July 1, 1999.

Their purchase of the Kings returned the Maloofs to the NBA after a 17-year absence during which the family eagerly pursued an opportunity to rejoin the league. Owners of the Houston Rockets from 1979 through 1982, the Maloofs watched their Rockets rise to elite status, advancing to the NBA Finals for the first time in the team's history in 1981. Following the death of their father, George J. Maloof, Sr., in 1980, Joe and Gavin Maloof, who were only in their mid-20's at the time, took over responsibility for the Rockets along with their mother, Colleen, their two younger brothers, George, Jr. and Phil, and their sister, Adrienne. The added responsibilities of continuing the growth of the family business forced the Maloofs to sell the Rockets in 1982, but George J. Maloof's Sr. original passion for NBA basketball has remained within the family. In the fall of 2002, the Maloof's assumed ownership of the Monarchs of the WNBA, furthering their commitment to basketball and the Sacramento community.

"We waited a long time to get back into the NBA. I remember going to the NBA Finals with the Rockets in 1981 and how exciting that was. We have succeeded in bringing that excitement to Sacramento with the Kings and the Monarchs," Gavin Maloof stated.

A 100-YEAR MODEL FOR DIVERSIFIED BUSINESS SUCCESS

The Maloof Companies are a diversified group of business ventures including hotels, casinos, banking, food and beverage and transportation headquartered in Albuquerque, New Mexico and operated in California, Colorado, Nevada and New Mexico.

In 1994, the family made a $10 million investment in a small piece of property in North Las Vegas, building the quaint 30,000-square foot, 100-room Fiesta Casino Hotel. After a pair of expansive renovations, the 75,000-square foot Fiesta became one of the most profitable hotel casinos per square foot in the entire state of Nevada. In fact, in an August '99 edition of the USA Today, the Fiesta Casino Hotel was voted one of the world's 10 greatest gambling destinations, ranking with the likes of the Bellagio and Caesars Palace in Las Vegas and the Trump Taj Mahal Casino Resort in Atlantic City.

In July of 2000, the Maloof family sold the operating interest in the Fiesta Hotel Casino for over $185 million. The family immediately reinvested the money into the construction of the Palms, a $285 million hotel casino just off the Las Vegas strip with a 42-story tower and 447 guestrooms. The Palms, which opened for business on November 15, 2001, features outstanding customer service, unique architecture and award-winning restaurants, entertainment, nightlife and amenities. In less than five years of operation, the Palms has become the hottest property in Las Vegas with thousands of visitors daily. The Palms recently added the Fantasy Tower, which includes a 10,000 square foot, basketball inspired, Hardwood Suite equipped with a basketball court, professional locker rooms and scoreboards, full bar, dance floor and much more.

In addition to their gaming business, the Maloofs have exclusive proprietorship rights to the distribution of Coors, Miller, Corona, Heineken, Tecate InBev, Boston Beer and Guiness products throughout New Mexico. The Maloof Companies also is the largest single shareholder in Wells Fargo Bank, which operates banks and branches in 23 states throughout the Western United States with over $200 billion in assets and 15 million customers.

The Maloofs are in the process of expanding their business in the entertainment industry with the development of Maloof Productions and Maloof Music. Maloof Productions is committed to developing and producing quality television and motion picture entertainment. The Maloof Music label debuts as a joint venture with Interscope/Geffen/A&M Records, which is the largest record company in the world under the direction of chairman and legendary music mogul Jimmy Iovine. In fact, Maloof Music is the first joint venture with Interscope/Geffen/A&M without a previous industry background such as an artist, writer, or producer.

"Our family is extremely excited to broaden our entertainment interests through Maloof Productions and Maloof Music. We look forward to producing quality entertainment in television, motion pictures and music," states Phil Maloof.

Colleen Maloof serves as Chair of the Board of Directors of the Maloof Companies. Joe Maloof is president of the corporation and oversees the banking and sports and entertainment divisions, while Gavin Maloof is vice chairman, also leading the sports and entertainment daily operation. George Maloof, Jr., is an executive vice president and heads the hotel division and Adrienne Maloof is the secretary/treasurer of the company. Phil Maloof is an executive vice president and the point person for Maloof Productions and Maloof Music.

The Maloof family history in the United States dates back to 1892 when Joe Maloof I opened a small general store in northern New Mexico. By the 1930's, the Maloof family acquired the distribution rights to Coors Beer and subsequently established Quality Imports, a wholesale fine liquor distribution center, in 1937. When Joe Maloof I, suffered a major heart attack in 1944, his son, George J. Maloof, left his studies at the University of Colorado to assume responsibility of the Maloof Companies at the age of 21.

George J. Maloof Sr. successfully expanded the family business into a group of diversified companies, moving into the hotel and banking sectors in the 1970's. In 1978, responding to his love for sports and competition, Maloof purchased the majority ownership of the Rockets. However, just two years later during the Rockets' rise to the upper echelon of the NBA, Maloof passed away at the age of 57. His wife, Colleen, assumed control of the entire Maloof operation and rather than selling off the company assets, she enlisted the assistance of her five children. Under Colleen Maloof, the family expanded their beer and liquor distribution operations and later opened their first gaming property in 1992. From 1990 to 1992, the family also owned the Birmingham Fire of the World League of American Football.

In the 100-plus years that have defined the Maloof Companies, customer service and a strong work ethic combined with energy and vision are the qualities that have built this one-time general store into a business model for diversified success. "From the days of my grandfather's general store to our entire operation now, the Maloof family business philosophy always has been centered around complete customer and employee satisfaction. In Sacramento, the fans are our customers and providing a great experience for them is our goal," says Gavin Maloof.

JOE MALOOF

Joseph Maloof is President of the Maloof Companies. Joe's business expertise and leadership qualities have helped enhance and diversify the corporation's growth since his father's death in 1980.

Joe manages the Maloof Companies' nearly 3,500 employees with an open door policy, much like his father did nearly 30 years ago. He also believes in treating customers in a first-class manner and with the utmost respect, and is often seen talking and listening to the fans and customers of the various family businesses.

"My father's business philosophy of taking care of our customers and employees was successful long ago, and all of us in the family have chosen to manage with that same style," states Joe.

His extensive expertise in management, sales and marketing has been invaluable during the company's expansion into banking, hotels and gaming over the past 20 years. He currently serves on the Board of the Coors Distributor Council. In May of 1999, Commissioner David Stern appointed him to the NBA Board of Governors after the Maloof family was unanimously approved by the Board to assume controlling interest of the Kings.

Like all of his family, Joe's charitable efforts are an important aspect of his personal and professional life. He has assisted countless community service groups through the years, including the Boys Club, the University of New Mexico, the American GI Forum, the Airport Little League and the League of Latin American Citizens, to name a few.

He has a passion for competition, stemming from his days as a prep and collegiate athlete. He was MVP of his high school basketball team at Lawrenceville Prep School (Lawrenceville, N.J.), and was a two-time letterwinner as a defensive back at the University of New Mexico, where he graduated in 1979 with a degree in business.

Joe resides in Sacramento less than two miles from ARCO Arena. He enjoys working out and is an avid tennis player.

GAVIN MALOOF

Maloof, Sr., in 1980, Gavin named president of the Houston Rockets at the age of 24, making him the youngest owner and oper in major professional sports history. The Rockets enjoyed immediate success under Gavin's lead ship, advancing to the NBA Finals for the first time in franchise history in 1981. With the likes of Mo Malone, Calvin Murphy and Elvin Hayes, the Rockets qualified for postseason play in all three seas under the Maloof family ownership.

In addition to his front office management the Rockets, Gavin also served as team president during the Maloof's tenure as owners of the Birmi ham Fire of the World League of American Football (WLAF) from 1990-92.

Gavin has always placed an importance on his community service work. Over the years he served on the Board of Directors for several chari table causes, including those focusing on the being of children.

Her Camp Kindness program was so successful in Sacramento, that she is currently in the process of developing a similar program for the Los Angeles SPCA.

JOHN WHISENANT

Sacramento Monarchs

General Manager & Head Coach

John Whisenant returns to the Monarchs for his fourth season as Head Coach and his third season as General Manager, after spending one WNBA season as assistant general manager, under then GM, Jerry Reynolds.

In 2005 Whisenant guided the Monarchs to their first ever WNBA Championship and finished the regular season with a franchise-best 25-9 (73.5%) record. He was recognized for his efforts as he was named the 2005 WNBA Coach of the Year, as selected by a national panel of broadcasters and sportswriters. In 2004 Whisenant led the Monarchs to the WNBA Western Conference Finals for their second consecutive appearance (third in franchise history) as they finished the year with an 18-16 regular season record. Midway through the 2003 WNBA season, Whisenant added the title of head coach to his assistant general manager duties for the Sacramento Monarchs. He finished the season with an impressive 12-4 (75%) regular season record and led the Monarchs to the WNBA Western Conference Finals for the second time in franchise history. His current overall record with the Monarchs is 55-29 (65.5%).

Whisenant brings more than 30 years of basketball experience to the Sacramento Monarchs. He delivers a passion for basketball and the knowledge necessary to help the Monarchs reach the next level of excellence.

Whisenant began his basketball career at Connors State College in Warner, Oklahoma (averaged 20.5 ppg) while hitting and leading in baseball at .377 and then continued on to New Mexico as a player for the New Mexico State Aggies where he was a starting guard for Coach Fresley Askew. "Whiz" was NMSU's second leading scorer in his senior season, averaging 13.1 points-per-game.

Upon completion of his playing days, Whisenant immediately went into coaching at Coffeyville Community Junior College (Kansas). While he was an assistant at Coffeyville, the Red Ravens were 48-10 (2 yrs) (83%).

Next Whisenant spent four years as head coach at Arizona Western (Yuma) where Whisenant's teams won three league championships and went to nationals all three times. His record was an impressive 97-30 (76%). The Arizona Western team finished third nationally with a 35-3 record.

After Arizona Western, Whisenant joined the staff of former New Mexico Lobo Coach Norm Ellenberger as head assistant basketball coach. During his seven years, the Lobos went on to a 137-62 (69%) record including two WAC Championships and four post-season appearances. The 1977-78 team ended the season leading the nation in scoring and ranked third nationally.

Following his coaching days with the Lobos, Whisenant has gone on to become a successful businessman with interests in commercial real estate, home construction and horse racing. He has also worked as a consultant to the Maloof family, advising them on their acquisition of the Sacramento Kings. Whisenant has kept his passion for basketball burning, serving as head coach of his son's AAU team in Albuquerque. Even at the AAU level, Whiz dominated. His team won 176 of 192 games (92%) including six state and regional championships. In 1995, his team won the BCI National Championship and finished fifth in 1996 and third in 1997. In 1999/2000 Whisenant took over the new AAA Pro League New Mexico Slam as vice president of basketball and head coach in the IBL/CBA league with a 51-35 (60%) record. In the leagues only full season the Slam finished second, only a half game behind St. Louis (40-22), at 39-23. This league was a forerunner to the current (NBA) D League.

A native of Gore, Oklahoma, Whisenant is married to Joyce (Mowery) Whisenant, a former women's basketball player. They have five children: Stan (a doctor and former University of New Mexico basketball player), Daniel (a major and former Air Force Academy basketball player), Johnette, (former women's basketball player and current girls' middle school basketball coach), Justin (former Dartmouth College football and basketball player, a doctor and radiology resident) and Jordyn (former women's basketball player and current UNM graduate student).

WNBA Championship Trophy Fact Sheet

Since 1997 Tiffany & Co. has designed and created the WNBA Championship Trophy which is awarded annually by the Women's National Basketball Association to the winning team of the championship game. The goal of greatness is crafted into every detail of this revered trophy.

- Originally designed and crafted by Tiffany & Co. in 1997.
- The trophy is created at Tiffany's workshop in Parsippany, New Jersey.
- Master artisans employ age-old techniques – spinning, silversmithing, chasing, etching, and polishing – to create the trophy.
- The sterling silver trophy is approximately 19 inches high and features a 7 inch basketball, etched with basketball seams, set atop three columns, set at an angle into a curved triangular base.
- The top of the base is etched with the WNBA logo and hand engraved on the front with championship game information. The bottom of the base is sterling silver.

Tiffany & Co. creates trophies for many of the world's greatest sporting events. These designs include the National Basketball Association Larry O'Brien Championship Trophy, the Vince Lombardi Trophy for the National Football League, the World Series Trophy for Major League Baseball, the New York City Marathon and the U.S. Open Tennis Championship Trophies. Inspired by the transcendent form and energy of competition, these outstanding Tiffany designs are a lasting tribute to the athletes' dedication and the thrill of victory.

Chicago Sky Is Ready To Soar

CHICAGO, Sept. 20, 2005 -- The Chicago Sky officially joined the Chicago sports landscape Tuesday, as the new WNBA team released its name, logo, colors and uniform at a fan appreciation event at the Adler Planetarium attended by more than 200 people.

"We wanted the name to have meaning and capture our dreams," CEO and President Margaret Stender told the crowd... We set three important criteria for the name. The name and the logo must be distinctly Chicago, it must be aspirational and encouraging and it must be high energy representing the style and substance that we plan to live by on and off the court.

"And then it dawned on us, there it was, everything Chicago stands for. How it towered, how it inspired, its character, how it stood to face the world. Architects say the Adler Planetarium is the best place in the city to view the spectacular skyline of this city. It is the place to see Chicago reach to the Sky."

Following the announcement, which included a 15-foot Chicago Sky T-shirt that was signed by those in attendance, four of the WNBA's biggest stars conducted a basketball clinic for the children present. Diana Taurasi, 2004 Rookie of the Year from the Phoenix Mercury, Sue Bird, 2005 Cascade Dish and Assist Award winner of the Seattle Storm, Ruth Riley, of the 2003 WNBA Champion Detroit Shock and 2005 Rookie of the Year Temeka Johnson of the Washington Mystics worked with more than 50 youngsters.

Taurasi and Johnson will be available for interviews through Wednesday afternoon. The giant T-shirt will be in locations around the city and suburbs through Oct. 15 and will eventually be auctioned off for charity.

The team's colors will be sky blue and yellow. "A beautiful day in Chicago means a blue sky and bright sunlight to highlight our spectacular skyline," Stender said.

This was latest big step for the Chicago franchise, which was awarded in February, and named NBA Hall of Fame member Dave Cowens general manager and head coach in May.

"The Chicago Sky style of play will be intense and action packed," said Cowens. "If you like basketball, you will love the Sky; they will compete with equal shares of sweat and heart," said Cowens, known for his work ethic and aggressive play in his 10 years with the Boston Celtics.

The Sky will begin play with the 2006 season at the UIC Pavilion, located on the campus of the University of Illinois at Chicago. The team will be the league's 14th franchise and will play in the Eastern Conference. Season tickets for the Sky's inaugural season are on sale at 877-329-WNBA (9622).

Chicago Sky Announces Expansion Draft Selections

NEW YORK, NOV. 16, 2005 – The WNBA's newest franchise took its first step toward assembling its inaugural roster, as the Chicago Sky announced the 13 players it selected in the 2005 Expansion Draft.

The list includes Jia Perkins (Charlotte Sting); Brooke Wyckoff(Connecticut Sun); Elaine Powell (Detroit Shock); Kiesha Brown (Houston Comets); Deanna Jackson (Indiana Fever); Laura Macchi (Los Angeles Sparks); Stacey Lovelace (Minnesota Lynx); DeTrina White (New York Liberty); Ashley Robinson (Phoenix Mercury); Bernadette Ngoyisa (San Antonio Silver Stars); Chelsea Newton (Sacramento Monarchs); Francesca Zara (Seattle Storm); and, Stacey Dales-Schuman (Washington Mystics).

In addition, the Chicago Sky owns the sixth pick in each round of the 2006 WNBA Draft.

General Manager and Head Coach Dave Cowens, President and CEO Margaret Stender and two of the Sky's newest members, Wyckoff and Jackson, will be available this afternoon for interviews via a media conference call at 2 p.m. ET.

Chicago had the right to acquire one player from each of the 13 WNBA teams. Each team had designated a maximum of six players who would not be available for selection in the Expansion Draft.

The Sky joins the Charlotte Sting, Connecticut Sun, Detroit Shock, Indiana Fever, New York Liberty and Washington Mystics in the Eastern Conference. Home games will be played at the UIC Pavilion, located on the campus of the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Season tickets for the team's 17 home games and two preseason games are on sale now and can be purchased by calling (877) 329-WNBA or on-line at the team's Web site www.chicagosky.net.

In 2005, the WNBA concluded its ninth season with an action-packed WNBA Finals that crowned a new champion for the third straight year as the Sacramento Monarchs defeated the Connecticut Sun. The WNBA Finals on ESPN2 produced significant increases in ratings (+33 percent) and viewership (+27 percent) versus 2004. As the preeminent women's sports league, the WNBA is the destination for the best women's basketball players in the world.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

YOLANDA LENDS A HAND AT RACE FOR THE CURE 2003

Through WNBA Cares, the WNBA is deeply committed to creating programs that improve the quality of life for all people, with a special emphasis on promoting a healthy lifestyle, positive body image, breast health awareness, youth and family development, and education.

WNBA Cares, in partnership with NBA Cares, is an initiative through which, the leagues, players and teams will raise and contribute $100 million for charity, donate more than 1 million hours of hands-on volunteer service to communities worldwide, and build more than 100 places where kids and families can live, learn and play over the next five years.

WNBA BE SMART – BE FIT – BE YOURSELF

WNBA Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself encourages teens and women of all ages to learn more about their bodies and the importance of physical fitness through programs related to health, fitness, nutrition and self-esteem. The program inspires teens and women to get started on "being fit" through small changes in their daily regimen. The content of the program is communicated and delivered through a Fitness Journal, a 'Team' of Spokespeople, National and Local grassroots events, promotion and a mobile tour.

BREAST HEALTH AWARENESS

For nine years, the WNBA Breast Health Awareness program has focused on generating awareness and educating women about breast cancer in addition to raising funds for the initiative. The WNBA and its teams have raised nearly $2 million to aid in the fight against breast cancer.

READ TO ACHIEVE

Read to Achieve is a year-round, league-wide initiative supported by NBA, WNBA and NBADL teams that promotes the values of reading and on-line literacy and encourages families and adults to read regularly with young children. JR. WNBA

By stressing fundamental skill development, teamwork, sportsmanship and positive adult participation, the Jr. WNBA aims to develop a life-long passion for the game of basketball by providing a support structure that encourages participation, and makes the game fun and rewarding for players, coaches, officials and parents.

COMMUNITY ASSIST AWARD

The WNBA Community Assist Award was created to honor the WNBA Players that reflect the passion that the league and its players have for their communities. The WNBA recognizes one player in each of the 14 WNBA team markets with an off-season Community Assist Award. The WNBA donates $500 in the name of each off-season award winner to the charity of her choice. In June, July and August the WNBA chooses one player from across the league for the Community Assist Award and donates $5,000 in the name of that player to the charity of her choice. BREAST HEALTH AWARENESS

For the ninth consecutive year, the Monarchs will adopt Breast Health Awareness as a community initiative and designate the June 2 Monarchs vs. San Antonio Silver Stars game as Monarchs "Breast Health Awareness Night." Information will be distributed about important breast health information to all fans in attendance that evening. The game will also be marked by a special in-game recognition ceremony.

On Saturday, May 13, Maloof Sports & Entertainment will also participate in The Susan G. Komen Race For the Cure at Cal Expo, which is the largest 5K race in Northern California to support Breast Health Awareness. A special Monarchs Fan Zone will be part of the Post-Race Expo during the event.

There are approximately 3,900 trees and over 8,000 shrubs on the 105 acres surrounding ARCO Arena with parking for up to 12,000 vehicles in the fully lighted parking lot. Among the indoor amenities are concession stands throughout, featuring 80 service lines, four lounges overlooking the arena interior, eight locker rooms, 297 public toilets and 24-hour security.

ARCO Arena adds to the local economy by employing as many as 1,200 full- and part-time workers throughout each year. Arena patrons have come to the events hungry, consuming 5,000 gallons of soda and 170,000 hot dogs a year!

One of the busiest buildings of its kind in the United States, ARCO Arena hosts nearly 200 events and two million spectators annually. The facility has been home to numerous premier concert events, including nine sellout shows by country music superstar, Garth Brooks, who has attracted over 144,000 fans to his ARCO Arena concerts.
